Course Description

This intensive Spoken Chinese course along with the Readings in Chinese allows motivated students to complete the third year of Chinese language courses in one semester. The class will focus on improving students' ability of oral communication in terms of fluency, accuracy and complexity. Besides learning new vocabulary and sentence patterns, students will devote most of the class time to speaking practice. Class activities include dialogue-practicing, story-retelling, drills, dialogue-making, discussions, debates and presentations.

Learning Objectives

By completing this course, students will:

By the end of this course, students are expected to master approximately a vocabulary of 3,000 words and 600 new sentence patterns. Students should be able to initiate and hold conversations with native Chinese speakers on day-to-day and social topics covered in the textbooks, such as traditional culture, money, youth, security, marriage, moral issues and new social phenomenon.

Course Prerequisites

This course is designed for students who have studied Chinese for four semesters at U.S. universities or its equivalent. Students should possess a working vocabulary of approximately 2,000 commonly used words.

Methods of Instruction

Class instruction emphasizes oral communication, individual and group interaction, drilling, report and presentation. Peer tutoring, pronunciation tutoring and language meals outside of classroom support in class learning.

This course works in coordination with the Chinese reading class using the same textbook. Teachers from both classes prepare the class together and each teacher teaches two classes per day in the hope of improving the students' listening, speaking, reading and writing skills in the same pace. The classes require students fully prepared before class. Students need to learn the vocabulary and the content of the lesson completely and mark the places that they do not understand before class.

The first and second period of the class are Chinese reading course, as the reading course syllabus outlined. The third and fourth periods are the oral classes, which include the following four parts. 1) A quick review of the difficult grammar points from first and second periods. 2) Answer short questions focusing on practicing the keywords, grammar points and sentence structure. 3) Discussion on given topics. The goal is to go beyond the text and apply the vocabulary, grammar points and sentence structures in other contexts. 4) If time allows, depends on the topic of the lesson, instructors may organize small debates, role plays, interviews and group presentations.

Course Requirements

Homework

Homework is assigned on a daily basis. Students should spend approximately 2 hours outside class on lesson preparation and homework assignments. It is important that you hand in your homework in the beginning of the class next day. Late homework is accepted up to one week after the deadline and will be marked down 1 point (out of 10) per day on each assignment grade. Missing homework more than one week after the deadline will not be accepted and not be given any points.

Oral Exams

An oral exam will be conducted every two weeks, altogether five times per semester. The oral exam will be in the format of oral presentation and answer questions from the group. Then there will be a one-on-one question answering section with the instructor. Students are graded based on their accurate use of new words, grammar points, sentence structures, the content of presentation, fluency of their speech, and pronunciation.

Fieldtrip Reports

There are five field trip reports this semester. The field trip report can be individual report or group report. Students make a presentation through visits to the places, doing interviews with locals, doing research on the places and people. Teachers will grade based on the content of the presentation, the use of new words and grammar points, and expression.

Language Commitment

You will sign a language commitment on the first day of classes. Language commitment is worth 5% of the final grade. Speaking Chinese is required in the classroom and the designated areas in the dorm building, including study center offices, student lounge, study room, hallway and dorms. Speaking Chinese is required when interacting with Chinese roommates/host families, tutors, other CIEE students and staff on campus. Speaking languages other than Chinese in these areas or environments may reduce your final grade in Chinese class by 1-5%.

Midterm Exam

Final Exam

Mid-term exam will be in the seventh week and final exam in the fifteenth week. Midterm will be in the format of oral report. For this report, pronunciation, vocabulary, grammar, content and fluency will count as 4 points each for a total of 20 points. Final exam will be more based on the textbook, including word explanations, reading comprehension and oral report on topics covered in the textbook. Among total 20 points of final, word explanation will be 5 points, reading comprehension will be 5 points, and oral report will be 10 points.

Participation

All course work must be submitted directly to the instructor of record, unless the student has received other explicit, documented instructions to the contrary. You are required to keep hard copies of all assignments for up to one year after the completion of the program in addition to any digital copies required by the instructor. It is your responsibility to make sure the instructor has received all your required work. Failure to do so may result in no credit for lost assignments.

Your active participation in each class is essential for successful language learning. It is important that you come to class well prepared.

Attendance

Participation means both physical attendance and active engagement in class. Late to class or leaving early three times will be counted as one absence. Throughout this semester, you have three excused absences, reserved for serious sickness or emergencies. In such cases, you should inform the Director and the course instructor ahead of time. You may present a note from a doctor or other supporting documentation to the Director to request the Excused Absence Form. With Director's approval and signature, you may submit the form to the language instructor for his/her approval and signature. The form will be kept by the language instructor for records. After the three excused absence, each absence per class will reduce your final grade by 0.5% up to 15%. Therefore, use your excused absences wisely!

N.B. Course schedule is subject to change due to study tours, excursions, or local holidays. Final schedules will be included in the final syllabus provided to students on site.
